

An Essential Tool for Education Research

Education Index Retrospective: 1929-1983

Education Index Retrospective provides a vast record of important education literature in an easily searchable format, with indexing of more than 800 periodicals and yearbooks. Find information on societal trends affecting education, such as segregation, multiculturalism, feminism, economic developments, and more.

- Accurate, detailed, cover-to-cover indexing of over 800 periodicals, many of them peer-reviewed.
- Includes the full text of Wilson Library Bulletin from 1914 to 1983, including PDF page images.
- Cites some 850,000 articles, including book reviews.
- Complements your current full-text databases—58 titles overlap with JSTOR.
- Produced by an in-house staff of librarians and subject specialists, with consistent bibliographic standards and no gaps in coverage.
- Contains the indexing from 33 printed cumulations.
- Updated subject headings make finding information easy, using contemporary terms. Original subject headings are also retained, providing insight into the way issues of the day were framed.
- Personal names used as subjects are standardized to ensure retrieval of all records about an individual.
- Library holdings indicator links to your OPAC to let users know if they'll find cited articles on your shelves.
- WilsonLink SFX-powered technology links to full text in your OpenURL compatible databases—including ERIC and JSTOR—at no additional charge.

- Search seamlessly with Education Full Text and ERIC for coverage from 1929 to the present.
- Time-saving: Access eight decades of volumes remotely on one search.
- Save valuable shelf space.

“Provides the breadth of coverage necessary for historical researchers.... No other electronic product competes with this database.... Highly recommended.”
